Assembled to bring together short and broken runs of periodicals produced by activists and movements for social justice Social Change Periodicals Collection touches on a wide variety of topics. Much of the original collection came from subscriptions held by the Everywoman's Center at UMass Amherst, however the collection has grown to include materials supplied by many other donors. The bulk of periodicals come from the period 1965-1990 and the subjects covered range from feminism to gay rights, and political radicalism, to peace, prison, labor, antiracism, and the counterculture more generally. The collection has been organized thematically into 19 series.

Background

Scope of collection

Assembled to bring together short and broken runs of periodicals produced by activists and movements for social justice Social Change Periodicals Collection touches on a wide variety of topics. Much of the original collection came from subscriptions held by the Everywoman's Center at UMass Amherst, however the collection has grown to include materials supplied by many other donors. The bulk of the periodicals dates from the period 1965-1990 covering subjects ranging from feminism to gay rights, and political radicalism, to peace, prison, labor, antiracism, and the counterculture more generally.

The collection has been organized thematically into 19 series. We anticipate that the collection will continue to grow as new materials are received.

Series descriptions

Series 1. Anti-War and Peace

1974-2004

Series 2. African American and Civil Rights

1964-1996

Series 3. Central America and Anti-imperialism

1974-2003

Periodicals focused on liberation struggles in Central America and opposition to U.S. imperialism, especially during the 1980s. Although most periodicals in this series were published in the United States, some were printed in Nicaragua, El Salvador, Mexico, and elsewhere.

Series 4. College and University

1970-1995

Miscellaneous college press and student publications. Most student periodicals and newsletters from UMass Amherst are included in the University Archives.

Series 5. Communism and Socialism

1971-2004

Series 6. Community Bulletins

1974-2004

Series 7. Economy and Inequality

1971-2002
