Read collection overview

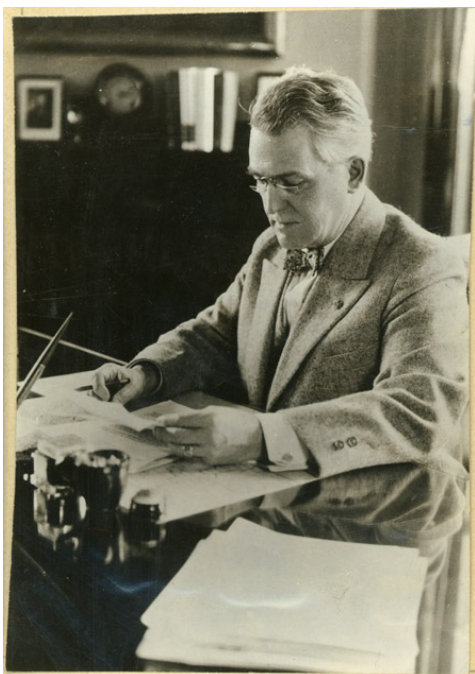

From its founding in 1863, UMass Amherst has grown from rural agricultural roots into a major research university, and the handful of instructors who present at the inauguration of the college has grown into a diverse faculty of over 1,100.

The Faculty and Staff Collection contains files accumulated by the University Archives relating to the faculty, staff, and administrators of UMass Amherst and its predecessors, the Massachusetts Agricultural College and Massachusetts State College. This list is not an exhaustive accounting of present or past members of the UMass community: although full-time, part-time, and visiting faculty are included, this listing includes only those for whom the University Office of Communications or University Archives collected information. Typically these files consist of some combination of resumes, notices of honors and awards, press releases and news clippings, articles about or by the subject, obituaries, and other miscellaneous information. In many cases, the subjects are represented by only one or two items.

Background on University of Massachusetts Amherst

Pres. Hugh P. Baker and Cabinet of Faculty, 1936

From its founding in 1863, UMass Amherst has grown from rural agricultural roots into a major research university, and the handful of instructors present at the inauguration of the college has grown into a diverse faculty of over 1,100.

Scope of collection

The Faculty and Staff Collection contains files accumulated by the University Archives relating to the faculty, staff, and administrators of UMass Amherst and its predecessors, the Massachusetts Agricultural College and Massachusetts State College. This list is not an exhaustive accounting of present or past members of the UMass community: although full-time, part-time, and visiting faculty are included, this listing includes only those for whom the University Office of Communications or University Archives collected information. Typically these files consist of some combination of resumes, notices of honors and awards, press releases and news clippings, articles about or by the subject, obituaries, and other miscellaneous information. In many cases, the subjects are represented by only one or two items.

Files in this collection are arranged alphabetically by the name of the subject, followed by their respective department or administrative unit in parentheses. In most cases, the date provided in the inventory below represents the date of first appointment, and in some cases, we also include the dates of major changes in appointment, promotions, retirement, and death. For those members of the faculty who are also represented in the University Archives by collections of personal or professional papers, we have provided "See also" references, with a link to the collection description. For faculty who are not represented in this Record Group, but who are represented by collections of papers, we provide a "See" reference. Please note that photographs of faculty and staff are listed separately in the University Archives.
